

This week we focused in on the language of the text, specifically consonant and vowel sounds, which was really helpful when looking at the language of Angelo. He is a lawyer, and playing to the consonant sounds really helps to extra emphasize the feeling of status and superiority that he has over the other people around him.

For his song this week I picked: drive ME crazy! By Lil Yachty and Diana Gordon

The song deals with a character that despite their religious views still desires someone. I'll be honest, it's maybe not the deepest song you've ever heard, but then again, I think Angelo's motivations aren't particularly deep either.
